IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Please remember that to be eligible for the federal student loan programs, a student must attend at least half-time. If a student fails to achieve half-time attendance, any federal student loan(s) must be immediately repaid (no repayment plan). For example: A part-time graduate student enrolls in 6 credits and borrows the maximum eligibility in the Federal Stafford Student Loan for that term. The Federal Stafford Loan is disbursed to the student's account paying tuition and fees; the remaining $5,000 is disbursed to the student. The student then drops a 3 credit class before the first class meeting. Since the student did not achieve half-time attendance, loan funds retained by Drake are returned to the lender and the Office of Student Financial Planning is required to notify the student's lender that he/she is not an eligible student. A "demand payment letter" is issued by the lender requiring the student immediately repay the $5,000. The student also owes Drake for the remaining 3 credit course since all student loan funds have been returned.

- Students should plan to bring funds (cash, check, or credit card) to buy books and supplies for the start of term as any financial aid in excess of the costs on the student's account will not be released until after the term begins.
- Students should notify the Office of Student Financial Planning of any outside scholarships they expect to receive. Outside scholarships are applied in total to the semester in which the funds are received, and account credit is entered only when the outside scholarship check has been received by Drake. PLEASE NOTE that all education benefits provided through employment must be reported and will be used as a resource in calculating student eligibility. It does not matter that the benefit may not be received until after the course is completed. Any financial aid will first pay charges on the student account including reducing or paying off any payment plan.
- In order to ensure timely processing, students should return the Loan Request Form to the Office of Student Financial Planning no later than July 1. Loans certified by July 1, 2009 will appear as a memo credit on the fall bill, but actual credit will not be made until these loan funds arrive. Please note that many loans include a processing fee deducted from the per semester loan disbursement making the net amount received less than the amount borrowed. Federal Graduate PLUS loans and student private education loans require a credit review by the lender; most student private education loans require the student to secure a cosigner.
- If loans are awarded for the entire academic year, requested loan amounts will be processed for that award period. Before you submit a Loan Request Form for a one-term loan, please contact our office to determine if you are eligible to borrow.
- The Drake University Office of Student Accounts offers tuition/fees payment plans through TuitionPay. More detailed information on the payment plans is available at www.tuitionpay.com/drake.
